HOW CAN YOU GET MORE INFORMATION

INFANTS AND TODDLERS (Birth to Three)

If you are concerned your infant or toddler is developing or learning differently, you can call an Early Intervention Service Coordinator. The phone numbers are listed on the back of this brochure for Early Intervention Service Coordinators at the Special Child Health Service Case Management Unit (SCHS-CMU) in your county .

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN YOU CALL?

A service coordinator will listen to your concern and will describe services and other resources that may be available for your child and family.

The Early Intervention Service Coordinator, may arrange for your child to have a developmental evaluation at no cost to you. This evaluation will determine if your child is eligible for Early Intervention Services.

Early Intervention Services can help families meet their child's developmental needs.

Early Intervention Services are provided to children:

- within the family's routine;
- within their natural environments (the home and community);
- in settings which children without disabilities participate;
- and with active participation of families.

PRESCHOOL CHILDREN AND STUDENTS (Three through Twenty-one)

If you are concerned your preschool child or student is developing or learning differently, you can call your public school district or the county supervisor of child study to find out the appropriate person in your district. The phone numbers are listed on the back of this brochure for the County Supervisor's of Child Study.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN YOU CALL?

You will talk with the County Supervisor of Child Study who is knowledgeable about special education and related services. The County Supervisor of Child Study will refer you to your district's child study team. A child study team member will answer the questions you may have.

If you would like to request an evaluation for special education and related services, send a written request for an evaluation to your district. Include your child's name, age, address and suspected or known disability.

After receiving your written request, the district's child study team has twenty days to have a meeting with you the parent(s). At this meeting, you and the team will decide if an evaluation is needed and what the evaluation will include.

To the maximum extent appropriate preschoolers and students with disabilities receive their education with children who are not disabled.
